

Christmas Mysteries

The Twelve Deaths of Christmas

by Marian Babson MYS BABSON

A series of random killings one Christmas season has London police baffled. How will Detective-superintendent Knowles be able to catch the murderer before another life is taken?

A Highland Christmas

by M.C. Beaton MYS BEATON

A little girl's Christmas wish comes true in this Hamish MacBeth Christmas adventure in which Hamish fits some 'Seasons Greetings' in with his normal crime fighting circumstances.

Jingle Bell Park

by Laurien Berenson MYS BERENSON

Melanie Travis is a capable woman but juggling a teaching job, her 8-year-old, and the upcoming Holiday is pushing the limit. When her son's bus driver is murdered, how will Melanie balance everything and still have time to solve a mystery?

A Catered Christmas

by Isis Crawford MYS CRAWFORD

You can't go wrong with a mystery novel containing recipes; such as this one with lots of Christmas goodies and which pits celebrity chefs against one another on a TV show.

Mistletoe and Murder

by Carola Dunn MYS DUNN

Daisy Dalrymple finds herself spending Christmas in a haunted house when some distant, and rather scandalous, relatives invite her for the holiday.

Visions of Sugar Plums

by Janet Evanovich MYS EVANOVIC

It's the holiday season in New Jersey and bounty hunter extraordinaire Stephanie Plum has more on her mind than the usual hoodlums and bad guy mischief.

Crewel Yule

by Monica Ferris MYS FERRIS

Betsy Devonshire, a.k.a. seamstress detective, prepares her needlework shop for another Christmas season trimming everything (mistletoe included). Now if only she could discover why suspicious deaths keep happening near her store.

Awful Advent

by Karl Fieldhouse MYS FEILDHOU

When a woman accused of murder is arrested and is found out to be one of Pastor Abby Shaw's own parishioners, Abby begins her own investigation to expose the real culprit.

Sugar Cookie Murder

by Joanne Fluke MYS FLUKE

Everything seems perfect for bakery owner Hannah Swensen with Christmas approaching and relatives pouring into to her hometown of Lake Eden, Minnesota. But killer lurks on Lake Eden's frozen shores plaguing this year's Season's Greetings.

The Jerusalem Inn

by Martha Grimes MYS GRIMES

It's been a bleak Christmas as bodies of dead women keep turning up for Scotland Yard Superintendent Richard Jury and his sidekick deputy. Can they catch the killer in time to spare the Holiday?

The Queen's Christmas

by Karen Harper MYS HARPER

Queen Elizabeth I of England must find out who's trying to kill her this time amidst the jolly festivities of a sixteenth century Christmas celebration.

The Christmas Night Murder

by Lee Harris MYS HARRIS

When Father Hudson McCormick fails to turn up for his welcome back celebration one Christmas night, ex-nun Christine Bennett is called on to find out why.

A Holly, Jolly Murder

by Joan Hess MYS HESS

Bookstore owner Claire Malloy caves in to curiosity and attends a winter solstice festival put on by druids only to find herself involved in a murder investigation when the cult's wealthy benefactor is killed.

Corpus Christmas

by Margaret Maron MYS MARON

When a Christmas season murder in old town Manhattan spoils a perfectly good art gallery, it's up to Detective Sigrid Harald to catch the killer before he strikes again.

Icing Ivy

by Evan Marshall MYS MARSHALL

Amateur sleuth Jane Stuart and her cat Winky pair up to investigate a holiday murder at old friend Ivy Benson's lodge.

Mistletoe Mysteries

by Charlotte McLeod MYS MISTLETO

An assortment of Christmas-themed mysteries from both American and Canadian Authors edited by noted mystery author Charlotte MacLeod.

A Christmas Beginning

by Anne Perry MYS PERRY

Inspector Runcorn's Christmas break on the Isle of Anglesey becomes a working holiday the a local vicar's younger sister's dead body washes ashore.

A Christmas Secret

by Anne Perry MYS PERRY

Church curate Dominic Corde and his wife Clarice are thrilled with the approaching holidays, especially with the opportunity to spend some quality time in a nearby vicarage. But the village hideaway holds some sinister secrets that threaten the couple's happy holiday.

A Christmas Guest

by Anne Perry MYS PERRY

'Grandmama' of Perry's Charlotte and Thomas Pitt series stumbles upon her own mystery one Christmas when an estranged family member has been murdered.

A Christmas Visitor

by Anne Perry MYS PERRY

A family reunion during Christmas at a large English estate is turned on its head when one of the houseguests turns up murdered. Renowned mathematician Henry Rathbone must now find out who could be responsible for such a crime.

A Christmas Journey

by Anne Perry MYS PERRY

Lady Vespasia Cumming-Gould investigates a holiday housewarming party murder/suicide in this latest Christmas mystery from Anne Perry.

Merry Christmas, Murdock

by Robert Ray MYS RAY

P.I. Matt Murdock becomes embroiled in the seamier side of politics when a state senator hires him to investigate her daughter's hit-and-run 'accident'.

The Christmas Gardening Affair

by Ann Ripley MYS RIPLEY

Host of a popular gardening TV show, Louise Eldridge couldn't be happier with the holidays approaching. But she herself could be planted when a stalker threatens to kill her.