

MYSTERY & SCIENCE FICTION

Savage Run / by C.J. Box

MYS BOX

When game warden Joe Pickett investigates the bizarre death of an environmental activist, he uncovers more than he ever could have bargained for.

Blue Poppy / by Sky Kathleen Moody

MYS MOODY

When a man is found murdered on the Olympic peninsula of Washington state, Fish and Wildlife Agent Venus Diamond does some undercover investigating at an ecological preserve where it seems some strange dealings have led to the death of the victim, a lepidopterist (flower scientist).

Cape Perdido / by Marcia Muller

MYS MULLER

In South Carolina, a high-profile chemical company wants to divert water from a small town's fresh water supply. When the town residents protest, things get heated and a local man is killed.

Cavern / by Jake Page MYS PAGE

When veteran spelunker Jake Whittaker discovers a fabulous new cave in New Mexico, he soon finds that he may have also uncovered a new species of bear. Unfortunately the local toxic waste storage facility doesn't want any further exploration to hinder its operations.

A Fine Line / by William G. Tapply

MYS TAPPLY

A dedicated naturalist and environmental activist is murdered in his own home. Soon, attorney Brady Coyne finds out that the man died with a vital secret, one his missing son may hold the key to.

Dead of Night / by Randy Wayne White

MYS WHITE

In a small town in South Florida, Dr. Spencer Ford finds some strange things in the swampy waters after the mysterious death of a local marine biologist. Soon, Ford finds out that an ecological catastrophe may be imminent if answers surrounding the scientist's death aren't uncovered.

Flood / by Stephen Baxter

SF BAXTER

In the year 2016, the earth is already being flooded in many regions because of the melting of the polar ice caps. With time running out four individuals try and save what is left.

Future Primitive: The New Ecotopias / Kim

Stanley Robinson, ed.

SF FUTURE

A collection of stories by some leading science fiction authors explores the world as seen through ecotopian eyes. The world of the present and the (possible) future are investigated in this fascinating volume of environmental literature.

Fifty Degrees Below / by Kim Stanley Robinson

SF ROBINSON

The earth is on the verge of environmental collapse in the near-future. Sociobiologist Frank Vanderwal is one of the leading experts on the current global warming problem which is causing drastic ecological disasters around the world and may be able to help in a big way.

Sixty Days and Counting / by Kim Stanley Robinson

SF ROBINSON

Robinson's latest eco-thriller and sequel to Fifty Degrees Below reveals the world of the future facing imminent environmental collapse and ecological catastrophe. With time running out, newly elected president Phil Case must work closely with scientist Frank Vanderwal to prolong life on earth.

MOORE MEMORIAL PUBLIC LIBRARY

1701 9th Avenue N.
Texas City, TX 77590

Phone: 409-643-5977
www.texascity-library.org

ENVIRONMENTAL FICTION

ENVIRONMENTAL FICTION

Hayduke Lives: A Novel / by Edward Abbey
FIC ABBEY

Four environmentalist friends, united by their concerns about ecological disasters occurring in the American southwest, begin pursuing more radical efforts when legal proceedings fail to get results.

The Year of the Flood: A Novel / by Margaret Atwood
FIC ATWOOD

The world of the future is greatly changed from the one we know. In the dystopian society of tomorrow, men and women dwell in secure compounds protected from the damaging environmental elements, all awaiting an imminent ecological disaster which will likely destroy all life on earth.

A Friend of the Earth / by T. Coraghessan Boyle
FIC BOYLE

In the year 2025, global warming has essentially ruined life on earth for everyone. Now Tyrone Tierwater, a young committed activist, dedicates his life to preserving what little natural beauty remains.

State of Fear / by Michael Crichton
FIC CRICHTON

When a brilliant scientist and author dies leaving some rather confusing words to his subordinate, the young man is thrust into a world being radically affected by environmental terrorists. Startling secrets are uncovered as the story progresses through a revelatory maze of smoke and mirrors.

Arctic Drift / by Clive Cussler and Dirk Cussler
FIC CUSSLER

In the near future, the price of gasoline in the US has peaked at $10 a barrel and President Garner Ward has to contend with a corrupt Canadian-based oil tycoon who's been tapping the oil reserves inside the Arctic circle.

Frozen Fire / by Bill Evans
FIC EVANS

When eco-terrorists kill several men who've been mining methane on the floor of the Atlantic Ocean, untold amounts of poisonous gases are leaked from the drilling operation causing numerous deaths and large-scale ecological damage.

The Hungry Tide / by Amitav Ghosh
FIC GHOSH

Piya Roy is a marine biologist and fervent environmentalist whose current assignment has her searching for a rare breed of dolphin found in India's Bay of Bengal. Needing a translator to communicate with her local guide, she enlists the aid of a Delhi man who's parents are natives of the area.

Ultimatum / by Matthew Glass
FIC GLASS

The year is 2032 and the world is feeling the effects of global warming. Citizens in the southern United States need to be relocated away from the overbearing heat and parts of the country have even been submerged underwater. With few alternatives, radical solutions for the country's welfare are now being contemplated by newly elected President Joe Benton.

Solstice / by David Hewson
FIC HEWSON

After designing a power station in space which has the ability to control temperatures on Earth, a brilliant but troubled scientist becomes an eco-terrorist and uses her knowledge and power to plague humanity.

Skinny Dip / by Carl Hiaasen
FIC HIAASEN

Marine biologist Chaz Perrone is in cahoots with a local South Florida tycoon who's been poisoning the Everglades for his own profit. But when Chaz goes too far and kills off his own wife, his shady dealings start getting the attention of more than a few concerned locals.

Prodigal Summer / by Barbara Kingsolver
FIC KINGSOLVER

In Appalachia, biologist Deanna Wolfe and a myriad of locals share their lives with the lushness of their natural surroundings during one special summer. Through their interactions and experiences, they realize that humans are only a small part of life on earth.

World Made By Hand / by James Howard Kunstler
FIC KUNSTLER

A wave of global ecological catastrophes has destroyed the entirety of the industrialized world. Now in the wake of the apocalyptic events, a small American town attempts to rebuild their lives through the meager means left to them.

The Violators: A Novel / by Gunnard Landers
FIC LANDERS

US Fish and Wildlife Agent Reed Erickson must infiltrate a gang of poachers who've been hunting animals at Yellowstone National Park. Soon he finds out that not only are the local flora and fauna being violated, but certain individuals are abusing the privileges granted a nearby Indian reservation.

The Tree-sitter: A Novel / by Suzanne Matson
FIC MATSON

Julie Prince is a brilliant student at Wellesley when she falls in love with Neil, a graduate student and vigilant environmentalist who convinces her to leave college and join him tree-sitting in the forests of Oregon.

